VETERAN'S SERVICES

QUESTION: Do you need assistance applying for VA benefits?

SERVICE PROVIDER: Weld County Veterans Services Office

SERVICE DESCRIPTION:

The Weld County Veteran Services Office is in place to assist veterans and their family members with filing of service connected disability claims, non-service connected disability claims, burial and survivor benefits, VA health care enrollment, and assist with VA educational programs (forms and applications). We also offer assistance with retrieving military service records, discharge certificates, and service treatment records. When we cannot directly assist veterans, our job is to direct them to the proper channel of aid. Our office keeps confidential files for our veterans to aid in documenting all paperwork involved in the VA claims process. We accomplish our goals of assisting our local veterans by face to face communication in our office, over the phone, and by conducting community outreach.

Nicotine Cessation

QUESTION: Are you interested in learning how to quit using tobacco (smoking) or nicotine (e-cigs, pouches)?

SERVICE PROVIDER: Weld County Department of Public Health and Environment

SERVICE DESCRIPTION: : Nicotine cessation counseling, immediate referrals to The Colorado Quitline or Baby & Me Tobacco-Free

When most people who use nicotine or tobacco try to quit, they go cold turkey. Unfortunately, they often relapse. This leads them to beat themselves up and think they cannot quit. Quitting cold turkey is only effective about 5% of the time.
We can educate people who use nicotine about the 2 effective ways to quit nicotine. Using both behavior change counseling and the quit smoking medications can dramatically increase your chances of being successful up to 30% - 40%.

- Even if you've tried one of the quitting medications in the past, most people don't take nearly enough to help with withdrawal symptoms and cravings. It's recommended to use 1,2,or 3 quit smoking medications to increase your chances of success. All of these medications can be started while a person is still using nicotine. People who want to quit slowly over weeks can also benefit from these medications. We can help you develop this plan.
- Behavior change counseling isn't like psychological counseling or therapy. When speaking with a Quit Coach over the phone, they may ask about a person's daily habits (drinking coffee) and triggers (like stress) to make plans to act differently. Even if you tried The Colorado Quitline in the past, they created special programs and updated their website.

Water Line

Question:
Do you live in a house built before 1960? You might have a water service line that contains lead.

Service Provider: City of Greeley Water Utilities

Service Description: Prior to 1960, lead was sometimes used for the water service lines that connect older homes to the city's water system. Greeley's water is lead-free, but as water runs through lead service lines or plumbing, the lead can dissolve or break off into tiny particles - ending up in drinking water. Exposure to lead over a long period may cause health effects, especially in children or pregnant women. It's important to identify the presence of lead and remove any source that may contaminate water as it enters a home or building.

Greeley Water and Sewer Utilities is asking Greeley residents living in houses built before 1960 to complete a short questionnaire at GreeleyCO.gov/leadsurvey.

Greeley Water will hand out individually wrapped "water service line test kits" with instructions on how to perform the test on their water service line to determine if it is made of lead. Each baggie includes instructions, a QR Code to the questionnaire, a pen light (service line may be in a dark crawlspace), a magnet and a scratcher. Residents can upload test results to Greeley Water via the survey link at GreeleyCO.gov/leadsurvey
